Harrison's Letter.

We present to-day a document in striking contrast to that which appeared in these columns on Monday. Gen. Harrison, in formally accepting the Republican nomination does not cover it up with platitudes, or bide the importance of the issues by appeals to the selfishness of the unthinking. His letter is written to the thinking men of the country, and that it will be carefully considered by them is evident. The people are thinking now, and this letter furnishes them food for reflection.

THE Review is trying to imitate Mark Tapley, though they may never have heard of him, and is doing its best to be folly. Looking at the causes for being jolly which it possesses it must be confessed that the British organ is entitled to a good deal of credit.

Ir is not to be wondered at that the Democrats are not happy over the result of the Maine election. It was not inhappy. Under the circumstances, however, the Republicans manage to stand the racket pretty well, and will not begin to mourn to long as they are receiving that kind of news.

it is dangerous for any political party n become over-confident, for such a feeliog is sure to breed carelessness and indifference. "It's all right, anyhow, so what's the use of my going to the election?" That is the natural sequence of undue confidence. It is all well enough for Republicans to be impressed with the belief that they can win, but it always should be compled with a mighty big "if." If we are vigilant, active, busy in season and out of season, we will elect Harrison and Morton, but if we allow our confidence to get the better of our judgment we may lose. There is no soldier who fights so well as the man who believes that his own individual efforts are absolutely necessary to success. An army of such soldiers is well-nigh invincible. Or course, it is necessary that the Republicans should feel that they have a fighting chance. Every indication goes to show that there is a good deal more than a chance to succeed. There is a movement towards Harrison and Morton all over the country that no sensible man run mistake. It has been growing the fire a six only the soldiers will some expressions of sympathy for an products. should be coupled with a mighty big "if." over the country that no sensible man can mistake. It has been so ever since the nomination, and it has been growing in force and volume all the time. Every attempt of the Peanocrats, from Mr. Cleveland up, has failed of its purpose has fallen flat, as it were. The organs and orators of the British party have followed no well-delit dipolary. They have struck out wild vin all directions, as drowning mencer that the whatever is in other point of refuge or safety presented itself. All have proved of vice il, and to day the Democratic computitions for the day the Democratic contents for and with no settled purpose or policy in view. The people have not been slow to perceive the extremity to which it is reduced the cross purposes which seem, to actuate that the leaders and the senseless course that the cross purposes which seem to actuate the loss of the foreign market. the leaders and the senseless course that the managers have pursued. Every election in the past two weeks has gone to show that there is no solidity to the party, no general agreement as to the objects to be attained nothing but an increasing all density and the desired agreement as the objects to be attained nothing but an increasing all density and the desired agreement as the objects to be attained nothing but an increasing all density and the desired agreement as the content of the content unorganized, clamoring mob seeking the for the country whether the protective system shall be continued or destroyed. The fact of 4 offices. Wherever the people have had an opportunity to express themselves there has been no question as to their sentiments. Whatever has affected the results in the states that have voted may whe are hastic to prove stems daties as whe are hastic to prove stems daties as be confidently expected to affect the results in other states. People are a good deal alike all over the country, and like causes produce like results among them, no matter what states they live in. We may confidently look for the same changes in New York that are occurring elsewhere. Whatever uffects New York will affect Connecticut and New Jerseyand the same influences that operate in Michigan to increase its majority will operate in Indiana to change its electoral vote from one side to the other. Indeed, there is every reason for Republicans to

We are not likely to be called upon, I think, to make a present choice beupon, I thing, to make a present construction to the protective system and the entire repeal of the internal taxes. Such a contingency, in view of the present relation of expenditures to revenues, is remote. The inspection and regulation of the manufacture of the manufacture of the construction of the manufacture of the construction of the manufacture. The inspection and regulation of the mani-facture and sale of electrications is important, and the revenue derived from it is not so great and the revenue derived from it is not so great that the repeal of the law need enter into any plan of revenue reduction. The surplus now in the treasury should be used in the purchase of bonds. The law authorizes this use of it, and if it is not needed for current or deficiency appropriations, the people, and not the banks, in which it has been deposited, should have the advantage of its use by stopping laterest upon the real points. be buildedont. At least those who needlessly and it should not be allowed to use the fear hourd it should not be allowed to use the lear of a monetary stringering, thus produced, to coerce public sentiment upon other questions. Closely connected with the subject of the turnflis that of the importation of foreign labor-ers under contracts of service to be performed here. The law now in force prohibiting such here. The law now in force prehiciting such contracts received my cordial support in the Senate and such amendments as may be found measurery effectively to deliver our working nen and wemen from this most inequitable form of competition will have ray sincere advocacy. Legislation probabiling the importation of laborers under contracts to serve here will of inhores under contracts to serve nore with however, unord very madequate relief to our working people, if the system of protective unites is breach down. If the products of American shops must compete in the Ameri-cian market, without favoring duties, with the products of enemptoring labor, the effect will be different, if at all, only in degree, whether the cheap laborer is across the street, or ever the sea. Such competition will soon reduce wages here to the level of those abroad, and when that condition is reached we will not need any laws forbidding the importation of laborers under contract—they will have no inducement to come, and the employer noincucement to send for them.

In the earlier years of our history, public In the earlier years of our history, public agencies to promote integration were common. The pioneer wanted a neighbor with more friendly instincts than the Indian. Labor was scare and fully employed. But the day of the manistration buteau has gone by. White our disease well centime open to proper immigration, we do not meed to issue special invitations to the inhabitants of other countries to come to our shores or a share our citizenship. Indeed, the recessity of some inspection and limitation is obvious. We should resolutely refuse to permit foreign governments to send that the permit foreign governments to send their paupers and criminals to car ports. apply the spirit of the Civil-Service rules to all be my sincere purpose, if elected, to advance the reform.

I notice with pleasure that the convention did not amit to express its solicitude for the promotion of virtue and temperance among our people. The Republican party has always been friendly to every thing that tended to make the home life of our people free, pure and prosperous, and will in the future be true to its history in this respect.

Our relations with foreign powers should be characterized by friendliness and respect. The right of our people and of our ships to hospitable treatment should be insisted upon with alignity and firmness. Our Nation is too great, both in material strength and in moral power to indulge in bluster or to be suspected of timorousness. Vacillation and inconsistency timorousness. Vaculation and inconsistency are as incompatible with successful diplomacy as they are with the National dignity. We should especially cultivate and extend our diplomatic and commercial relations with the Central and South American States. Our asheries should be fostered and projected. The hardships and picket that must be necessary implients of the risks that are the necessary incidents of the risks that are the necessary incidents of the business, should not be increased by an inhospitable exclusion from the near-lying ports. The resources of a firm, dignified and consist ent diplomacy are undeubtedly equal to the prompt and peaceful solution of the difficulties. that now exist. Our neighbors will surely no expect in our ports a commercial hospitality

I can not extend this letter by a special reference to other subjects upon which the convention gave an expression. In respect 10 them. as well as to those I have noticed, I am in ou-tire agreement with the declarations of the

A GRAND ARMY.

Columbus, O., Thronged with a Quarter of a Million Strangers,

One-Half of Whom Are Grand Army Veterans of the Late War.

COLUMBUS. O. Sept. 11,-Bright short the sun this morning, and a cloudless sky the sun this morning, and a cloudless say looked down all day upon the Grand Army Encampment. Still it was not warm. No better day for the grand parade could have been desired. At an early hour the delegations and posts as-signed to places near the head of the column began moving toward the places of formation; but it was eleven o'clock before the column moved. An hour's march brought it to the reviewing stand, past which a continuous line of Grand Army men in platoons in close column marched for five hours. The number of men participating is variously estimated, but by the best authorities could not have been less than seventy-five thousand. On the reviewing stand were, besides Commander-in-Chief Rea and staff and Past Commander Pairchild, General W. T. Sherman, Ex-President Hayes, Ex-Sen-ator Thurman, Mrs. Logan, Mrs. Garfield and son, Governor Foraker and State and Federal officials. Mrs. Logan remained upon the review-ing stand during all the five hours, and was apparently much interested in the veterans who showed her distinguished attention.

The Illinois men were particularly en-thusiastic in honoring her, cheer after cheer going up from them as they passed, to all of which she responded with reneated bows and smiles. General Sherman was the object of much attention from the veterans, many of whom, no doubt, saw him for the first time since the war. Many left the ranks to reach up and grasp his hand. He also remained on the stand all the time the army was passing, most of the time standing. The choers for him and the salutes he acknowledged with a quick, nervous jerk of the head characteristic of him, his eyes nover leaving the marching line which he seemed to scrutinize carefully, his face wearing its imperturbably stolid expression. Governor Foraker was cheered much by the Ohio men in line. In turn he cheered these posts which presented excelent appearances, and was particularly demonstrative when the Maine delegation passed, and the cheering for "Maine" got mixed up with that for "Blaine." Ropes were stretched along the streets to keep the crowds back on the sidewalk and allow the procession to march without impediment.

To-night there are being held four dif-ferent camp-fires, at which prominent military men are making speeches. There are probably two hundred and fifty thousand strangers in the city, about one hundred and twenty-five thousand of whom are G. A. R. men.

Milwaukee is the only city that is making an open fight for the next encamp-ment. The objection to it is that it is not centrally located. To-morrow the delegates meet in council to do business. The first thing to do will be to select a place for the next encampment. Then will follow routine and pending business, and the meeting will obes with the election of officers. The management of the Ohio Centennial has sot apart to-morrow for G. A. R. day at the exposition, when G. A. R. men will be admitted at half rates. The day will also be one of re-unions, and in the evening there will be camp-fires again. General Sherman will speak at the centennial grounds to-mor-

BETALIATION BEGUN.

Canadian Importers Arranging to Re-ceive Their Goods by the Inter-Oceanic Railway. Out., Sept. 12 -Yesterday Ottawa, morning the Citizen, in an editorial evidently inspired by Sir John Macdonald, said that the British Government will formally advance the opinion that a two years' notice must be given before the transshipment clause of the Washington treaty can be abrogated. It alds that, in anticipation of the Retaliation bill being carried into effect, the principal import-ers have arranged to receive their good by the Inter-Oceanic railway instead of by the New York and Boston roads.

HOME COMFORT" FURNACES.

Wrought Steel, Malleable Iron, Very Little Fuel, No Leaky Joints.

No one can say that the time was not ripe for a new furnace. The days of buttle, porous, cast iron furnaces are numbered. In every branch of manufacture cast iron is being driven out by wrought iron and steel. Every bridge that goes down in a wreck of lives and property is found to have cast iron members. Every bursting cannon which slavs its friends rather than its enemies is made of cast non. Every leaky furnace which poisons a household with its noisome gases is found to be made of the same cheap, unreliable material. Improved methods of manufacture have made steel and iron plate, of first quality, less expensive than cast iron formerly was, and it is plainly in accord with progress in other directions that there should be progress both in design and the material of furnaces for warming our homes, churches and schools.
